

Signs

As it makes its way through Austria and Bavaria, the Mozart Bike Trail is uniformly signposted in both directions with the same symbol (Mozart's head). The connecting trail between Laufen, Inzell and Kössen is also marked as the Mozart Bike Trail. The connecting trail from Bad Reichenhall to Salzburg follows the existing Tauern Cycle Path, while that from St. Lorenz to Köstendorf sticks to the Salzkammergut Bike Trail.

A Brief Overview

Length: 450 km

Connecting trails between St. Lorenz and Köstendorf, Laufen and Kössen, as well as Bad Reichenhall and Salzburg.

Elevation change: 2,000 m total (see elev. profile). Anticlockwise tour is recommended.

Surface: 90% on bike paths and low-traffic side roads, mostly paved.

Duration: 10-14 days
This represents approx. 40 km per day; plan shorter daily stages between Niederndorf and Salzburg (uphill stages – see profile). This will allow plenty of time for the numerous sights along the way. Connecting trails make shorter tours possible.

um, and past the "Silent Night Chapel" in Oberndorf. The Bavarian segment of the Mozart Bike Trail begins at the town of Laufen: Waginger See and Chiemsee lakes are highlights for cyclists making their way to Seon Abbey and Obing – both of which were visited on several occasions by Wolfgang Amadeus. And be sure to set aside sufficient time for excursions to Herren- and Frauenchiemsee islands.

Yet another important station in Mozart's life was Wasserburg: he made a stop here in 1763 during a 3 1/2-year journey which would also take him to London and Paris. Now the Mozart Bike Trail makes its way upriver along the Inn to Rosenheim, before returning to Austria once more. Shortly before Kufstein, we make a left into the Kaiserwinkel region of Tyrol, where the bike trail hugs

View across the Wolfgangsee to St. Gilgen, "The Mozart Village"

Let us begin in the city of Salzburg, where we can visit the houses where Mozart was born and lived. The bike trail runs past the pilgrimage church of Maria Plain, for which Mozart composed his Mass in F Major. As we make our way along the old Ischl rail line to Eugendorf, a detour to St. Gilgen is highly recommended. This town will always be associated with Mozart's mother, who was born here, as well as with his sister, Nannerl.

Back on the bike trail proper, the route continues through the Salzburg Lake District, past Schleedorf – The Open Village, past Mattsee with its abbey and Bajuwarii Open-Air Muse-the shores of the Walchsee. The next "Mozart landmarks" are: Waidring, Lofler and Bad Reichenhall, where the musical genius always concluded the first leg of his Italian journeys. The last kilometres lead us to Berchtesgaden – Königssee, then past Hellbrunn Palace and back to Salzburg.

So it is that our intrepid cyclists are exposed to a well-balanced blend of delightful landscapes, outdoor exercise and way stations in Mozart's life. Three connecting trails, which tie in such other "Mozart landmarks" as Inzell, Freilassing and Triebenbach Castle (south of Laufen), make it possible to take several different routes on our tour along the "Mozart Bike Trail" – resulting in an experience that is perfectly suited to our own personal tastes!
